Supreme Court Transferring Gyanvapi Mosque Case To District Judge Gives Wrong Signal

The Supreme Court order of May 20, transferring the suit on the Gyanvapi masjid dispute from the civil judge (senior division) Varanasi to the district judge casts aspersions, though unintended, on the competence of civil judges in general. The matter had reached the Supreme Court on a petition filed by the Mosque Management Committee, which challenged the civil judge's orders. The order permitted inspection, survey, and videography of the mosque's complex to collect evidence about the alleged existence of idol of Hindu deities inside the mosque, which is adjacent to Kashi Vishwanath temple. After the survey, the lawyers representing the Hindu side claimed that a Shivaling was found at the Mosque premises. They filed an application for protection of Shivaling, whereupon, the Civil Judge directed magistrate, Varanasi, to seal the area where the Shivaling was sighted. It also directed the deployment of CRPF to protect the sealed area and prohibit people from entering it. The mosque managing committee had filed an application before the civil judge seeking the rejection of the plaint on the ground that it was barred by Pleading of Worship (Special provisions) Act, 1991—it prohibits individuals and groups of people from converging, in full or in part, a place of worship of any religious denomination. It was argued before SC that given the said Act, the suit was liable to be rejected at the threshold as the Civil Judge had no jurisdiction to entertain the same, much less to pass the aforesaid interim orders. It was further argued that not only did the civil judge proceed with the suit but also pass interim orders that are coming in the way of Muslims offering Namaz—they are not being allowed to use the pond close to the protested site for performing wuzu which is an essential part of their prayers. The mosque was thus alleged that the religious character of the mosque is being sought to be changed. The committee prayed for stay of the proceeding before the civil court. The Supreme Court has not found any fault with the order of the civil judge, though there is also a view that it was mandatory on part of the civil judge to have first pass any order on whether he has jurisdiction to entertain the suit. And only after holding so, he would have proceeded to pass the interim orders. However, it been so, it would have set the order aside or changed it or stayed the proceedings. So, in a way, the SC has affirmed the orders of the civil judge, no one alleged, that he was biased and not competent nor did anyone ask for transfer of the case from him. The Civil Court had territorial and pecuniary jurisdiction to deal with the matter. Why then the SC has transferred the matter to the court of district judge? The only ground in its orders pertains to competence of the issues involved and their sensitivity. Therefore, according to the apex court, the matter needs to be dealt with by a senior and experienced judicial officer. Does this mean the civil judge is not competent to decide a complex matter? Is SC not passing an adverse observation about the competence of all civil judges? The SC with the stroke of a pen—and without finding any fault with the order of the civil judge—has seemingly declared civil judges to be not competent to decide the matter allegedly to be complex. Who will decide whether the matter is complex enough to be taken up by superior judge? When the Civil Procedure Code, the High Court rules and orders invest a civil judge with jurisdiction, why take it away merely on the plea that the matter is complex? Almost every day, we hear the Hindu groups laying claims to the mosques on the ground that they were built by ruling temples to the ground by Muslim rulers. Today it was Gyanvapi Masjid, tomorrow it will be Shahidgah Mosque and another day it will be Jama Masjid, Bhopal. All such cases will be no different from Gyanvapi mosque. They will be equally complex and sensitive. Nobody knows when, such moves which threaten the rip apart social fabric of our country will come to an end. And who knows when such matters may land before Supreme Court again. With the greatest respect for the apex court, will it transfer such cases to district judges? If yes, then why we have civil judges - Kapilkumar M. Hirpara Editor

Nitish Kumar to decide on RS nominee, says JD-U chief Lalan Singh

Senior leaders in the BJP, however, said that there was probability of a Brahmin and an OBC candidate finding favour for the two

Agency News: Patna

After a meeting between Union minister RCP Singh, who is eyeing a third term in the Rajya Sabha, and Bihar chief minister Nitish Kumar late on Thursday evening, all eyes are on the CM for his decision regarding the JD-U nominee for the Upper House. JD-U president Rajiv Ranjan alias Lalan Singh, who was also present at the meeting between RCP Singh and Kumar, feigned ignorance on whether the JD-U will retain its candidate. The last date for filing nomination is May 31. "I don't know. It is for the CM to decide. Whatever he decides will be acceptable to all," Lalan Singh said. When asked by the media, all that the CM had to say on Friday was that "everything will soon be known." Strangely, the BJP has also refrained from announcing the names of its two nominees so far, while both the candidates of the JD have already filed their nomination. In Bihar, five RS seats are due to fall vacant. Senior leaders in the BJP, however, said that there was probability of a Brahmin,

'IAS couple shunted to distant places because...': Anurag Thakur slams Delhi govt over dog-walking row

Union sports minister Anurag Thakur referred to the IAS couple of Delhi who made the Delhi government's Thyagraj Stadium close so that they could walk their dog and said

Agency News: New Delhi

Union youth affairs and sports minister Anurag Singh Thakur on Saturday said the Centre took action against IAS officers Sanjeev Kharwar and Rinku Dugga who made the authorities of the Thyagraj Stadium vacate the stadium so that they could walk their dog. "Delhi government did nothing. The Centre intervened and transferred them to distant places. It's these athletes who win medals for the country. No one should interfere with it. Not my party, not any other party," the Union minister said in Pune as he inaugurated the Khashaba Jadhav

Sports Complex at Savitribai Phule Pune University. "What can be more unfortunate and more shameful than athletes are outside but the IAS officers are walking their dog?" The Union minister said without taking their names. The Union minister referred to the Delhi incident as he said sports grounds should not be idle; there should be one competition after another continuously. "Infrastructure is there, grounds are there, but some restrictions come in place." "Delhi government did not take action against the IAS officers who were forcing athletes out of the stadium. The stadium was not opened for the athletes. But the Centre took action and made their transfers to distant places so that a clear message can be sent across that sports grounds are for the athletes," Anurag Thakur said. "I am again saying that these grounds are for sportspeople. If your faculty members want to play on this 27-acre ground, they can, but please don't go to the synthetic track wearing slippers for your walk," the minister added. There should be some rules, the minister said. "If this indoor stadium is meant,

Facing cash crunch, Sri Lanka to get 90,000 tonnes of Russian light crude oil

Agency News: New Delhi

Sri Lanka on Saturday received Russian oil in a bid to restart operations in the island nation's only refinery, AFP quoted the country's energy minister Kanachana Wijekera. The country is facing its worst economic crisis since independence with the people on streets over acute shortage of essentials and fuel since the past 50 days. Ceylon Petroleum Corporation, the state-run refinery was shut in March due to the foreign exchange crunch, which left the government being unable to finance crude imports. The Russian crude oil delivery has been waiting offshore at Colombo's port for over a month as the island nation was unable to raise $75 million to pay for it. AFP has learnt that Colombo is in talks with Moscow to arrange direct supplies of crude, coal, diesel and petrol despite the US-led Western sanctions on Russian banks over its invasion of Ukraine. "I have made an official request to the Russian ambassador for direct supplies of Russian oil," Wijekera said, adding that crude alone cannot fulfil the requirement as the country need other refined products too," the minister said. Around 90,000 tonnes of Siberian light crude will be sent to Sri Lanka's refinery after the shipment was acquired on credit from Delhi-based intermediary Coral Energy.
